

Comvita’s new Independent Director

Posted on: April 10, 2016

Murray is an experienced commercial lawyer having advised and worked with both large and medium sized New Zealand companies, State Owned Enterprises, and government departments. As a former New Zealand diplomat and government international trade lawyer, he also has specialist expertise in international trade law and policy.

Murray spent five years as General Counsel and Board Secretary with Zespri International

Limited, and is now a Partner at Tauranga law firm Cooney Lees Morgan which he joined in 2009. His legal practice spans company and commercial law, mergers and acquisitions, agribusiness and international trade law and policy. Murray’s strong background in these disciplines plus his extensive knowledge in human resources and remuneration matters, will be complementary to the skills of the existing Board Members. Murray was also on the Board of Priority One, the business development agency in Tauranga, for eight years with the last three being Chair, and is a Director of Enterprise Angels, the local BOP/Waikato angel investment group.

In accordance with the Comvita Constitution, Murray will be formally nominated for re-election to the Board at the 2016 annual meeting in October. If elected, it is anticipated Murray will assume the role of Chair of the Remuneration & HR Committee of the Board of Comvita, from Dr David Cullwick who retires from the Board in October this year.
