

Great Scott!

Posted on: April 10, 2016

Scott's broad range of experience, diligence and appetite for a challenge will stand him in good stead as he takes on this new role. "I'm stepping into this new role with great excitement and confidence – which is mostly due to the great people I get to work with at this firm."

Scott's main areas of practice are trusts and property, with a particular interest in farming and kiwifruit transactions. He has many years of experience advising clients on property transactions, asset protection and succession planning. Scott's a huge advocate of life in the Bay of Plenty and believes that aside from being a great place to raise a family, it's now recognised as a progressive and prosperous region that young professionals are drawn to. You only have to look around the offices at Cooney Lees Morgan to see the changing face of Tauranga.
